Prime Minister Discusses Unemployment

Statesman-minded Mr. Bennett talks on the subject of unemployment. He cited world conditions. Canada's improving economy generally (reduction of unemployed from 750,000 in 1923 to 500,000 at present) is not good enough, Mr. Bennett emphasized. Something else had to be done. The people of Canada must pay for it. No. If every man who had reached the age of 60 were taken from the labour market, 120,000 young men would be given profitable employment. Many industries had already made this principle their policy. The cost? Certainly not any greater than the present charge on the federal, provincial and municipal governments in maintaining able-bodied young men on relief.

The Unemployment Insurance Commission would soon have figures that would give the complete Canadian picture. Then a definite scheme could be worked out to put all under 60 back to work, allow those over 60 to live in comparative comfort and security, to pursue hobbies profitable or for pleasure for the remainder of their days. All this Mr. Bennett told the nation in his own forceful manner.

Something more interesting about this line was hinted. What about hours of work? Perhaps the eight hour day and forty-eight hour week might be found antiquated before long.

There is a limit to the public works any government can undertake. The Housing Scheme would help. Work in National Parks would help. The 60 year retirement proposal would help to the tune of 120,000. But what of the remainder?

As important or more so, built from another angle was Mr. Bennett's glancing proposal to apply the principle of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act to private debts and to refund all public debts at lower rates of interest.

PREMIER HEPBURN, ONTARIO

TOWN COUNCIL

A regular meeting of the Strathmore Town Council was held Tuesday evening with Mayor Gardiner presiding. All Councillors except Quinn and Hinton were present.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary and adopted. A letter was received from the owner of the shack near the old railway barn on Railway avenue, stating the shack would be moved at the earliest convenience, as requested by the Council.

Last week the Secretary wrote the Dept. of Health enquiring as to the advisability of holding the School Fair while the infantile paralysis epidemic still exists. The reply stated it not advisable and the school fair has been called off for the present.

An offer was received by the Council for the purchase of the ice house and remaining buildings of the Livery Barn. The Council decided to insert an ad in the paper calling for tenders for the purchase of the buildings.

The Town Planning Zoning By-law was given its third reading to be passed by the Council.

The Secretary was instructed to employ Mr. Chapell, Highway Commissioner as to road cutting, with the possibility of this being done to some of the streets in town if the cost is not too high.

A request is to be made of the Alberta Motor Association, to erect a Strathmore direction sign at the Cheate corner.

Secretary Wears reported that all dog taxes have been paid for the present year, much to the delight of the Council.

A number of accounts were presented and passed for payment after which the meeting adjourned.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
Editor, Strathmore Standard—Duck shooting season has opened again and hunters, from all parts of southern Alberta have come so close to the lakes in the Strathmore district, which is considered one of the best hunting ranges in the southern part of the province. This now this district is being closed to them by farmers and landowners and this is due to the fact that they have abused the privilege of being in Strathmore duck hunting here at home. Now time ducks and geese are going the way of wild ducks and partridge. For instance last Monday two men, one in a duck dress and the other in a duck dress, dressed in hunting clothes and passing as sportsmen, deliberately shot a number of tame ducks here on my property. I have been very busy in being told what they had done by two other youths, profane language was used and the ducks were scattered up and carried away in the quick varying ear. No recompense was made and no apologies given, but please for your own sake, don't return. Here's hoping the Strathmore district to outdoor hunters.

Yours truly, JOHN TAYLOR

RALLY DAY IN THE UNITED CHURCH
Rally Day, on the North American continent, has become a recognized institution among the churches. It is very interesting to note the influence of school life upon our activities. We take our holidays in the summer largely because the schools are closed during July and August. Those whose callings require a periodic change of residence, make that change after the examinations have closed the school year. With the opening of school, all are at their post of duty and the Church, along with many other institutions, begins the new work in September, aiming to have all their organizations underway by the beginning of October. So Rally Day becomes a kind of New Year's Day for churches.

This occasion will be recognized in the United Church by an open season of the Church School in morning and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the close of the evening worship. It is expected that the congregations from Cheate and Nakam will join in the morning service and will contribute to the program. This is a preliminary children's service but the parents and friends will make no better investment than an hour spent in supporting both the children and the teacher next Sunday morning.

In the evening there will be the Sacrament at the close of the regular period of worship. The Table of the United Church is open to members of all churches and to those who may not be members but wish to be considered believers. And where else could we hope for a better start for the year's work than from that altar. Our congregations have been increased but we hope for even a larger gathering next Sunday. Those who are very cordially invited to be with us.

GRASSHOPPER MENACE 1935
Grasshoppers are still a serious menace in southern Alberta, and the indications are that the season of 1935 will see another large invasion unless concentrated effort is put forth by the farmers to counter it.

Fall cultivation of stubble land is being urged by the provincial and federal authorities as a means of destroying hopper eggs. A great deal of loss resulted this season from the fact that many farmers failed to heed the advice to cultivate stubble fields last fall, and that they proceeded to feed these badly infested lands this spring. Many of these fields were a total loss.

Prof. Strickland of Alberta University, says, it is well known that grasshoppers lay their eggs in fallow land. Every field which is seeded after fall is therefore free from hopper eggs when the latter hatch in the spring. A careful examination of the fence rows at that time, and the use of bait on them wherever hopper eggs are seen to have hatched in large numbers will keep such fields free from grasshoppers at least until they are flying.

In stubble fields the problem is more serious. Eggs may be laid throughout their length and breadth. Hopper eggs are laid throughout the fallow parts of the summer and during the fall till heavy frosts kill off all of the egg-laying females. They are then found in the stubble and are disturbed before winter, practically all of them will hatch in the spring. All stubble should be shallowly cultivated in the fall.

Nearly all of the eggs will perish, however, if the infested stubble is cultivated to a depth of not more than two inches in the fall. The object of this is to bring as many of the eggs to the surface as is possible. Any which are thus exposed will perish.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Stockton were the hosts of a very elegant gathering of some of their friends on Friday evening last.

The rendezvous was the very family which was made more adding attractive to Mr. and Mrs. T. Harty and by quantities of beautiful flowers of various types grown in the family garden. The guests assembled with mixed feelings of happiness and regret, for during a period of 25 years, friendship, comradeship are formed and memories exist which are not quickly or easily replaced. We would not have it otherwise.

Bridge was played at seven tables. Mr. T. Harty and Mr. T. Harty were the leaders of the high score, with Mrs. Patterson and Mr. Stenham being awarded the consolation. Following the refreshments served at exquisite tables, Mr. T. Harty expressed the kindly regard all present felt for Mr. and Mrs. Stockton, and the belief that they had played as citizens of the town and district during their residence here. Mr. Wright paid tribute to Mrs. Stockton as a wife, mother and friend. Mr. Stockton's name would always be associated with the town. He had been instrumental in planting, which added so greatly to the attractiveness of Strathmore. Mr. Wright prefaced his remarks by stating that he was one of the few remaining in Strathmore, who was there when the Stocktons arrived. On behalf of those present he presented to Mrs. Stockton a very lovely silver music player, to Mr. Stockton a silver vase. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stockton were deeply touched by the presentation of the kindness shown them, and felt that the experiences and friends made in Strathmore and vicinity would remain among their most cherished.

And Lang Syne. And they are Jolly Good Friends were sung up by all present in their own special way. Adieux were said and another evening passed into the treasure chest of memories.

The farmer can use what implements he prefers so long as he keeps this object in mind. A well conditioned fall cultivation should destroy about 90 per cent of the eggs. It is obvious that it is far more satisfactory to destroy the majority of the grasshoppers in this manner, before they hatch than to wait till they have already caused irretrievable damage in the spring before it is possible to reduce their numbers with bait.

While many farmers are averse to fall cultivation which might enhance soil drifting, yet there can be little danger from this if the cultivation is shallow, leaving a trash mulch on the surface.

It is vulgar, in literature, to make a display of emotions which you do not naturally have, but that you ought to have, because all the best people do have them. It is also vulgar (and this is the more common case) to have emotions, but to express them so badly, with so much too many protestations, that you seem to have no natural feelings, but to be merely fabricating emotions by a process of literary forgery. (Aldous Huxley)

It is useless to ask me to love my neighbor. He richly deserves the cordial dislike that I feel for him. I respect his rights. Respect for your neighbor's rights, whether you like him or not, should be taught to all children. It is highly important.

You can't go up to a man on the street and ask him to love his neighbor. It is an intrusion on his privacy. An outrage! You will only incite him to hate his neighbor. And do not forget that human affection is one of the great curses of mankind, the principal obstruction to progress.

(George Bernard Shaw)

Some Philosophic Gems—

In books lie the soul of the whole past time, the articulate, audible voice of the past, when the body and material substance of it has altogether vanished like a dream.

(Thomas Carlyle)

An ambassador is an honest man sent abroad to tell lies for the good of his country. (Will Rogers)

Irealism increases in direct proportion to one's distance from the problem. (John Galsworthy)

"Two men and I walked down the windy beach. Where the cooled water wore and pale sand smooth. Watching the gull curve and the wave cry soothe. The bent mind, the bitter hands of each."

One said— Nothing, not the crying of sea, is old. As the crying of the sea.

One said— Nothing on earth can be as old. As the heart of me.

I thought— Nothing can be told. How these men's grief may be.

With little life to share
Two men and I moved, where
Over the thing white sand
The waves walked, hand in hand."

(Oscar Wilde)

THE GENEVA TRIANGLE

Sir Samuel Hoare's strong speech in support of the League of Nations, points Great Britain firmly in the forefront of the demand for collective action to prevent war in Ethiopia.

Britain's part in the application of sanctions will be the most important and the most hazardous. The British Empire the most exposed, and she may have the chief instrument.

France is the second member of the triangle. Paris has made some commitments to Rome the nature of which are not exactly known. They were given to say Italian support for France as against Germany.

Italy completes the triangle. Her purpose is clear. If Duce, by threats or by war, intends to add to Italy's African domain, he desires to recover the glory that was Rome and to this end seeks eventually not only Ethiopia but a large territory in Africa.

He should recall the lines in Grey's elegy:

The loam of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth
e'er gave,

awaits alike the inevitable hour.
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

For a century Britain's naval dominance in the Mediterranean has kept Italian ambitions from wandering far afield. Today the rise of air armaments has changed that situation. Britain ranks herself as a power in strength in the air, vital links in her Mediterranean chain could be broken by Italian planes.

The whole experience should help the nations, including the United States, to see that their interest in peace is a continuing, vital interest to be maintained effectively in times of collective methods. The Monitor of peace, not an eleventh hour effort.

A SPLENDID VENTURE

That C. P. R. farm enterprise at Brooks, recently taken over by a group of farmers under provincial government supervision, is a venture of far too great importance to be permitted to lapse or even mark time. I spent the Monday holiday there and after a full day of close investigation found that I had no more touched the fringe of things. To see the Brooks enterprise right and to get out of it all it contains of value, one should be around a week or more. Briefly told, its Brooks irrigation farm is a great testing ground for not only the province of Alberta, but the whole prairie region. There under favorable conditions is being checked the undreamed possibilities of the west in the way of soil productivity. Offhand I am not able to tell you of all the experiments being made in that irrigated area. Those of you who saw the farm exhibit at the recent Calgary Horticultural Society exhibition, have some idea what has been accomplished, but that is only a mere glimpse. The true picture can be seen only at the farm itself. One of these fine days there will be many farmers in Alberta growing their own fruits within shelter belts as a result of the fine work being done at the Brooks farm. But (ornamental trees, whole groves of them, are being this year at Brooks. Here's hoping the government will see its way clear not only to continue but to extend this most valuable experimental work. Observer in Calgary Herald.

A BOOK OR TWO

Mr. A. C. Ballentine, editor of the Calgary Albertan comments most favorably on Mackenzie King's revived Humanity and Industry.

COL. LAWRENCE'S LAST BOOK TO SELL AT $500,000 A COPY

The Mint, said to contain bitter criticisms of Men and Institutions. Only Ten Copies

The highest price ever quoted on a book at publication will amount those who inspire next winter about The Mint, by Alexander Lawrence. The price is $500,000 the copy.

Alfred Newman Ross is T. E. Shaw and T. E. Lawrence and Lawrence of Arabia.

One of the greatest powers ever kicked up about a book attended the almost surreptitious publication of his Seven Pillars of Wisdom, in 1926. But Lawrence also left a manuscript entitled cryptically, The Mint. It is nearly 7000 words long and continues Lawrence's experiences after the end of Seven Pillars, particularly his experiences in the Royal Air Force.

His criticisms of living men, of British institutions and of the professions of soldier and several other things are described by one who has seen the manuscript as so stringent that publication may not be allowed in England for many years, if ever. Lawrence wished it to be protected, but kept it out of circulation.

So the book is to be set up and printed by Doubleday, Doran and Co. Two copies will be sent to Washington to secure copyright. Ten copies will be kept for sale. But it is not believed that there will be any takers at $500,000.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science Churches next Sunday the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Matter." The following is one of the Scriptural quotations contained in the Lesson-Sermon: While I live will I praise the Lord. I will sing praises unto my God while I have any being. (Psalm 146:2) One of the correlative passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 49): Matter cannot connect mortals with the true origin and facts of being, in which all must end. It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and fling the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator.

Farmers Attention!

DESTROY GRASSHOPPER EGGS

By Fall Cultivation

Reports indicate that hoppers are very numerous this fall, as owing to late hatching of eggs when crops were well advanced, farmers underestimated the numbers present and did not spread bait in sufficient quantities.

If weather conditions remain favorable there is every indication of another outbreak in 1936.

Cultivation should be done as soon as possible, as a loose surface will not be conducive to further egg laying, and will assist in the destruction of those eggs already laid.

CULTIVATE THOUGHS NOW.
